TURFLI

ELEVATED YARDSCAPES

Luxury Lawns and Greens LLC | Scottsdale, AZ | turfli.com

What We Found

Turfli has built something significant. 101 Google reviews at a 5.0 average. ROC licensed, BBB A+, Smartscape certified. 15-year warranty on installations. The backyard remodel page has positioning language most contractors never get to: "We're not a maintenance landscaper. We're a design-driven outdoor living contractor." That's differentiated. The foundation is there.

However, search "backyard remodel Scottsdale" right now and Turfli doesn't appear anywhere. Ground Zero Landscape appears. Luxe Outdoor Environments appear. They are getting the $60-100k+ call. Likely, Turfli gets the smaller 1-2 day turf installs, which is good for cash flow, but misses out on larger opportunities because turf is what the site signals.

The Disconnect

This isn't just a website problem. It's a positioning, trust, authority, and visibility problem. All four are connected and all four point in the wrong direction.

Positioning: The homepage tells Google this is a turf company. In order, it reads: a price banner for turf, a generic H1, then a second H1 that says "Scottsdale's Premier Synthetic Grass Specialists." The hero copy is about artificial grass installation. The body has a "Hardscaping Services" label with no content and no links. The meta description shown in Google results: "Transform your Phoenix yard with Turfli's premium artificial turf installation."

Backyard remodels, outdoor living, paver patios, outdoor kitchens: none appear in the homepage body.

Trust: The portfolio page exists but has limited photos, no project descriptions, no locations, no materials, and isn't in the nav. A buyer considering a $60-100k project can't find it easily, and what they find when they get there doesn't tell them enough. The site has no social links. No Facebook, no Instagram linked anywhere.

Authority: Domain Authority is 5 out of 100. Most established local contractors competing for design-build searches in Scottsdale sit in the 20-35 range. Authority is built primarily through backlinks: other sites linking to turfli.com as a credible source. Right now there are almost none. The Scottsdale Independent press article is the one meaningful editorial link in the data, but the canonical tag points to YourValley.net, so Google assigns that authority to someone else. 31 of 48 pages have zero internal links, so whatever authority the homepage does carry isn't being distributed to the service pages that need it. 4 blog posts are fully orphaned. A DA of 5 puts a hard ceiling on how high any page can rank regardless of content quality.

Visibility: 84 organic visitors per month. Rank 20+ for backyard remodel and landscape design across all 72 grid points in the metro. Not visible on any of the 6 AI platforms tested for outdoor living or remodel searches. Organic search is not a meaningful inbound channel right now.

Supporting Data

Google Maps Heat Maps

Three keyword scans across the Phoenix/Scottsdale metro. 72 grid points each. See attached reports.

Attached: "artificial turf near me" (avg rank 16.74, some presence) | "backyard remodel" (20+ all 72 points) | "landscape design near me" (20+ all 72 points)

The turf map shows real presence in Scottsdale pockets. The backyard remodel and landscape design maps are solid grey across all 72 points.

Key Numbers

Metric	Result	Business Impact
Organic visitors per month	84	Nearly all inbound dependent on paid or direct traffic
Domain Authority (0-100)	5	Hard ceiling on organic ranking ability
Site issues flagged	292 across 48 pages	Significant drag on search performance sitewide
Orphaned pages	31 of 48	Portfolio, hardscape, all city pages: built but invisible

Local Pack: backyard remodel	20+ all 72 points	Not visible anywhere in the metro
Local Pack: landscape design	20+ all 72 points	Not visible anywhere in the metro
Local Pack: artificial turf near me	Avg rank 16.74	Some presence. Turf installs still coming in here
AI search: outdoor living / remodel	0 of 6 platforms	ChatGPT, Gemini, Perplexity, Grok, Claude, AI Mode
AI search: turf pricing	2 of 6 platforms	Perplexity and Google AI Mode
Google reviews	101 at 5.0	Strong. Keywords skew turf, not design-build
Social links on website	None	Running Meta ads. No Facebook or Instagram linked on site

What We Found on the Site

Page / Element	Issue	Business Impact
Homepage	Two H1 tags. Second reads "Scottsdale's Premier Synthetic Grass Specialists." Price banner is the first heading Google reads on every page sitewide. No body links to service pages. Meta description: "Transform your Phoenix yard with Turfli's premium artificial turf installation." The positioning language that should be here is already written on the backyard remodel page: "We're not a maintenance landscaper. We're a design-driven outdoor living contractor." It needs to move to the homepage.	Positions Turfli as a turf company to Google across every page. The right message exists elsewhere, it's just on the wrong page.
Homepage title tag	"Home - Turfli - Luxury Lawns and Greens LLC"	No keyword, no city. No reason to click from search results
Homepage body	No links to any service pages. Nav links exist but body content links to nothing.	Google weights body links far higher than nav links for passing authority

Portfolio / Gallery	Limited photos. No project descriptions, no locations, no materials. Not in the main nav.	Hard to find, and doesn't give a $60-100k buyer enough to evaluate the work
Social presence	No Facebook or Instagram linked anywhere on the site	Running Meta ads with no visible social presence is a credibility gap
About page	Compelling founder story buried at a URL that misspells the brand: /about-tufli-scottsdale/	tufli instead of turfli. Breaks direct links. Story should be much more visible
/patio-design-installation/	Headline: "Custom Outdoor Patios by Turfi"	Typo in the most prominent text on the page
